That is not theory, but experience. Mr. Rosewater said:

"Now, this is from the practical standpoint and will not be gausaid. The fact is that the consolidations which have always followed competition between telegraph companies in this country have made the plants of the companies excessively costly while upon the capitalization which these plants represent the dividend would seem to be rather small. It is notorious, however, that there have been enormous profits accumulated in this business."

Mr. Rosewater further said:

Mr. Rosewater: Yes, sir.

Mr. Bingham: Perbaps the best comparison can be made with the administration of the Post-Office Department to-day. And now make a comparison, as you would make one between any of the two services of the Government—that is, between the telegraph and the postal service. Do you think it would be a cheaper service for the people than is now conducted by the Western Union?

Mr. Rosewater: I think it would be A Bill Passed and Signed Twice. A Bill Passed and Signed Twice.

The Coardsville crowd said the Guilford fellows should not pass them and several of the former jumped out and showed that they were ready to fight. The challenge was promptly accepted and both sides went at it with a vengeance. The fight waged furiously till an officer of the law came up, and after vainly attempting to separate the combatants mounted the fence and commanded the peace, saying at the same time unless his orders were obeyed he would report every mother's son of them to Judge Gillot and have them fined and put in inil. This acted like a charm, for hostilities ceased at once, but not till several of the combatants had lost their coats and shirts and had their faces badly bruised. Persons who arrived on the scene soon after the fight ended say the ground was strewn with torn garments and old shoesoles, and that the ditch close by, in which the wounded had washed their faces, was tinged with blood.

U. W., and Greble Lodge, I. O. O. F. It is probable he may be taken to Petersburg for interment. A heavy storm visited this section on yesterday. The wind blew very hard and the rain fell in torrents. In town no damage is reported, but at Chesaneake City it is said that several houses had their roofs torn off, and two milk-wagons on the road near the Old-Point end of Mill-Creek bridge were blown into the river. The drivers escaped without injury, but the wagons were broken and the horses considerably bruised.

SMITHELD, VA., April. 10, 1880.

Yesterday was an eventful day in the history of Smithfield. About 12:15 o'clock the alarm of fire was given. It turned out that a house used for keeping wood on the lot belonging to Mr. E. W. Little was on fire. For awhile there was considerable excitement, as the destruction of some very valuable stores and dwellings seemed imminent. Hard work, however, soon conquered the flames without the ignition of any other house. It is said that the wind changed to a favorable point while the house was burning. The fire was caused by live coals contained in ashes heedlessly emptited by a servant into a barrel sitting in the house.
